§ 1 Purpose of data processing

In order to process your visa application for the People’s Republic of China it is necessary to process (especially to collect, store and use) your personal data. Moreover, the data provided in the “Visa Application Form of the People’s Republic of China” is transferred to the Embassy of the People’s Republic of China in Berlin, Märkisches Ufer 54, 10179 Berlin and to the Consulate General of the People’s Republic of China in Hamburg, Elbchaussee 268, 22605 Hamburg. These diplomatic missions are involved in the processing of your personal data.

The data is processed in the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of The People’s Republic of China (No. 2, Chaoyangmen Nandajie, Chaoyang District, Beijing, 100701) as well including data storage on servers used by the Ministry of Foreign Affairs in China. To ensure a proper and successful processing of the Visa Application, the diplomatic missions of the People’s Republic of China are involved.

§ 2 Data particularly worthy of protection

In order to check your Visa Application personal data particularly worthy of protection resulting directly or not directly from the information provided in the “Visa Application Form of the People’s Republic of China” is transferred to the Embassy, the Consulate General and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the People’s Republic of China. For the purpose of issuing a visa this could be personal data pointing to racial or ethnic origin, religious or ideological beliefs, biometrical data, health data, data about sexual orientation and data regarding criminal convictions and crimes.

§ 3 Resolution about appropriate level of data privacy

Currently, there is no resolution by the EU commission regarding Art. 45 Abs.3 of the German Data Protection Regulation (DS-GVO). This means the EU commission has not yet determined if the level of data privacy in the People’s Republic of China meets the requirements of the DS-GVO.

§ 4 Suitable Warranties

For the purpose of data transfer to a third country, the DS-GVO alternatively assumes suitable warranties, Art. 46 Abs.1 DS-GVO, currently not existing.

§ 5 Possible Risks

The protection of your personal data is crucial to us. However, despite our measures towards data privacy and data security with regard to the above-mentioned §§ 3,4, there are possible risks that cannot be completely eliminated. These are in particular:

Your personal data could possibly be processed for other purposes than the Visa Application and gathered by third parties.

You possibly cannot enforce your right to information towards the Embassy, the Consulate General and the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the People’s Republic of China sustainably.
